

Two Friends, One Vision = Woman Made Gallery

Kelly and I met at NEIU in the early 1990's and all we wanted to do is to make art. So we created our senior show together, renting a small storefront on Rockwell in Ravenswood Manor to exhibit it. We thought to use the space to continue creating our work, but that didn't happen. Instead, you happened. You got involved, you wanted to show your work because there were not enough opportunities for women artists.

VOILA WMG.

Woman Made Gallery incorporated in 1992, and we received non-profit status in 1994. Janet Bloch joined in 1993, Pamela Callahan got on board shortly afterwards, and so many other supporters did their incredible part for WMG to flourish.

And five moves, 450 shows and 9000+ artists later, we are still providing exhibition opportunities for women and nonbinary artists. Many heads and hands have helped to propel WMG forward, because at WMG many cooks don't spoil the food.

We believe the show must go on!
